Fort Belvoir-based reserve unit gets new commander

Col. Bobby Claiborne took the reins of the Logistics Civil Augmentation Program Support Unit at a change of command ceremony presided by Maj. Gen. George W.S. Read, commanding general of the U.S. Army Reserve Readiness Command, at Wood Theater Feb. 3.

“The LSU is vital to the Army because you need to have a monitor or facilitator between the warfighter and the contractor to ensure that requirements are maintained and fulfilled. These individuals are very key in doing that for the Army,” said Claiborne.

RRAD receives BAE Systems Bronze Chairman's award

Red River Army Depot, Texas, was recently awarded the 2006 BAE Systems, Ground Systems Division, Bronze Chairman's Award.

Red River Army Depot Public Private Partnership Team developed a groundbreaking relationship in implementing a Public Private Partnership between the U.S. Army and BAE Systems' Ground Systems Division. The team implemented Lean Six Sigma remanufacturing lines for the Bradley transmission, 25 mm gun, turret drive system, power pack assembly and also established a dedicated machine to mold Bradley road-wheels.

The BAE Chairman's Awards recognize excellence in the successful exploitation of innovative ideas, the transfer of best practices and in delivering outstanding support to the customer (internal or external). Thirty winners from 117 BAE Ground Systems nominations were selected from these three categories.
